COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The purpose of this course is to provide students with knowledge and skills which will enhance their capacity to work with First Nations by engaging in critical analysis of the social, political, economic, and religious context of European/Canadians and First Nations relations. The historical and contemporary relationship between European/Canadians and First Nations over the past five hundred years will be analyzed in terms of the social/psychological impact upon First Nations individuals and their communities. As well the trajectory of Canadian policies/legislation aimed at First Nations and factors contributing to child abuse, family breakdown, violence against women and children, and drug and alcohol abuse are all considered with attention to implications for social work practice. Past and current influences of social work practice in justice/corrections, health, education, employment, economic development, self-government and Aboriginal rights are also considered within a holistic framework which can inform effective practice with Aboriginal individuals, families and communities.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

Students will gain an understanding of the history of First Nations peoples which was not totally of their own volition. Students will become familiar with First Nations' perspectives on the social, political and economic consequences of governmental policies and helping practices directed towards them. Students will become aware of historical and contemporary aspects of identity, poverty, health, education, justice, homelessness and economic development.

Students will gain perspective that will enable them to situate themselves with respect to the historical and contemporary circumstances of First Nations peoples in urban and rural settings.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

1. Critically analyze the impact of European political, social, and economic policies and religious efforts on First Nations people.
2. Critically analyze the strengths and weaknesses of major European/Canadian legislation and policies that have been and are currently directed at First Nations people.
3. Critically analyze the “diversity of experiences” that First Nations people have had in their relationship with European/Canadian society.
4. Critically analyze the historical and current roles of social workers as well as implications for practice.
5. Identify barriers to and strategies for effective social work with First Nations.
6. Apply principles of a holistic approach to social work practice with First Nations in the above analysis.
7. Assess the appropriateness of interventions aimed at First Nations.

 REQUIRED COURSE TEXTS:

There are no required course texts. The articles, book chapters, and on-line sources that are required reading will be available on the internet or uploaded to Connect.

COURSE POLICIES [attendance, participation, academic dishonesty]:

Excerpt from the UBC calendar:

Regular attendance is expected of students in all their classes (including lectures, laboratories, tutorials, seminars, etc.). Students who neglect their academic work and assignments may be excluded from the final examinations. Students who are unavoidably absent because of illness or disability should notify their instructors prior to the class

The University accommodates students with disabilities who have registered with the Disability Resource Centre. The University accommodates students whose religious obligations conflict with attendance, submitting assignments, or completing scheduled tests and examinations. Please let your instructor know in advance, preferably in the first week of class, if you will require any accommodation on these grounds. Students who plan to be absent for varsity athletics, family obligations, or other similar commitments, cannot assume they will be accommodated, and should discuss their commitments with the instructor before the drop date.

It is recommended that students retain a copy of all submitted assignments (in case of loss) and should also retain all their marked assignments in case they wish to apply for a Review of Assigned Standing. Students have the right to view their marked examinations with their instructor, providing they apply to do so within a month of receiving their final grades. This review is for pedagogic purposes. The examination remains the property of the university.

Academic Dishonesty:

Please review the UBC Calendar “Academic regulations” for the university policy on cheating, plagiarism, and other forms of academic dishonesty. Also visit www.arts.ubc.ca and go to the students’ section for useful information on avoiding plagiarism and on correct documentation.

Submitting Assignments:

Students can submit hard copies of their assignments or any correspondence to faculty or teaching assistants in class, or upload it to the course site.

Return and submission of student assignments:

Instructors coordinate the return of marked assignments. The options are as follows: a) the instructor returns the paper to students in class; b) if the paper has been submitted electronically, the instructor will mark it on-line (with track changes) and return to the student on-line; c) the instructor returns the paper to the student by snail mail (the student provides a self-stamped, addressed envelope to the instructor). Marked papers not returned by any of the options above will be held by the instructor. Marked papers will no longer be put in a box outside the instructor's office or at the main office counter.

Late assignments:

Late assignments will result in one mark deducted for each late day. Tests may not be written after one week of the test date. Assignments are to be submitted on or before the specified due dates. Any extensions must be negotiated AT A MINIMUM OF 3 DAYS BEFORE the date the assignments are due.

Class participation:

Students are expected to complete the weekly readings before each class, participate in class discussions and group work.

TOPIC	Final Exam: Closing and Potluck	FINAL EXAM
REQUIRED READING	Talking Circle led by Elder and Potluck

ASSIGNMENTS:

1. Cultural object/artifact: Oral and written presentation: 25%
2. Taking it to the people, presentation and written evaluation: 25%
3. Big ideas reconciliation project: 25%
4. Final exam (cumulative): 25%

1. CULTURAL OBJECT: ORAL PRESENTATION (5 minute) AND WRITTEN (4-page) PAPER

You are asked to identify, and bring to class, one cultural object / artifact from your own family, nation, ancestry, or community (as defined by you), and in a 5-minute presentation to your colleagues,

- identify the importance or significance that the cultural artifact or object represents to you, your family, your community or nation

-describe two ways in which this cultural artifact/object could represent (1) a support, and (2) a challenge in the development of your social work practice with Indigenous peoples,

Assessment of presentation- Evaluation criteria:

Did you clearly identify, describe and meet all the oral presentation requirements? (10%)

Depth of critical analysis

Depth of student engagement

Assessment: Evaluation criteria in your written 4-page paper: (15%)

You must critically analyze the two ways that your cultural artifact or object supports and challenges the development of your social work practice with Indigenous peoples.

Assessment Criteria

1. Depth of critical analysis and its clear relation to your developing practice with Indigenous peoples.
2. Level of student engagement with topic
3. Evidence – effective and convincing use of evidence from reference and course materials and other reliable sources to support points made
4. Clarity and coherence – points are presented in a clear and logical manner
5. Style and presentation – grammar, spelling, APA referencing (required for all assignments), proper formatting

2. TAKING IT TO THE PEOPLE, AND WRITTEN ANALYTICAL, REFLECTIVE EVALUATION:

Based on your in-class learning, you are expected to share one specific Indigenous issue in social work with friends, family, colleagues or others, and report back in a (1) talking circle format (5 minutes) (10%) and (b) a four-page analytical, reflective summary, that provides clear evidence of your project (15%). The Indigenous issue may exist in practice, policy or research. There are only two rules involved in this project: (1) you must be safe, and (2) your project must be legal. Otherwise, you're only limited by your imagination.

Your written project will be evaluated using the following criteria:

- a) Clear identification of the Indigenous issue and what influenced or encouraged you to choose it as a topic. What is the topic, and how you believe it relates to social work practice, policy or research with Indigenous peoples.
- b) Clear identification of who, how, when and where you approached the person/people to share the issue
- c) Identify from a critical analysis perspective: What you learned from the sharing experience, and how might your social location, gender, race, age, ethnicity, ableism etc have influenced your experience.
- d) Identify anything that you would do the same, and differently if you were to do this educational exercise again with others? Why?
- e) Grammar, clarity and coherence, APA
- f) Evidence
- f) You will share a brief overview of your project in-class in a talking circle format.. See the course outline for November 4, 2015 for specifics.

3. BIG IDEAS RECONCILIATION PROJECT

Your group project will identify a digital or physical archival, analytical, and reflective project on a topic relevant to this course, and of interest to you. It must engage with course materials and discussions and include regular updates.

Assignment Criteria:

1. Your group must provide an artifact suitable for digital or physical display in the School of Social Work, and provide a 30 minute in-class presentation on your project on November 24.
2. Your group must succinctly identify one specific social work issue/theme that (your group thinks) requires reconciliation of either a) social work practice or b) social work policies with Indigenous peoples.
3. The issue/theme must be identified and discussed in relation to your group's independent study of a current (a) journal article, (b) book chapter, (c) current newspaper, (d) on-line media article, (e) you-tube video (WRITTEN OR PRODUCED AFTER 2005 by a self-identified Indigenous person or group)

4. Identify and explain the ways in which the knowledge gained throughout the course and this independent study will assist you to engage respectfully and work effectively towards reconciliation with Indigenous peoples on this particular issue/theme.

Assessment

Your written project will be evaluated using the following criteria:

- Did you group meet all the criteria?
- Did your group provide examples of steps toward reconciliation.
- In what ways could/did your group accomplish these steps towards reconciliation?
- Clarity, coherence, grammar and appropriate use of APA
- You are also expected to provide a 30 minute presentation of your project in a talking circle format in class. See the course outline for November 25, 2015 for specifics. This project will be discussed at regular updates.

4. FINAL EXAM December 2, 2015

One and one half hour, in class, closed book exam. Administered from course materials, and will include questions related to assigned readings, lectures, guest presentations, videos and other multi-media knowledge and information provided in class and during community visits. The test format may include short question/ answers, multiple choice, and short essay developed with students.

GRADING CRITERIA:

Letter Grade	Percent Range	Mid-Point
